Mint Partners

Keeping to the Rules

Nick Batsford has 20 years experience of financial markets, including dealing on LIFFE and the LSE. He started with software vendor Market Age plc and then worked for various trading and brokerage companies. He has appeared regularly on Bloomberg television and wrote for the Sunday Business. He is currently working as an independent Stockbroker with Mint Partners in London, produces a daily newsletter for Investment banks and Hedge Fund traders, and runs weekend courses for private investors from the Bull Bear Club. In June, Fleet Street publications will start publishing his newsletter for private investors.

Nick will give a brief history of those analysts that have influenced him. His methodology is a combination of Japanese Candlesticks and Point and Figure charts to establish trade direction, on varying time horizons. These are reinforced with momentum studies, (RSI, Relative Strength etc) and his own easy to read proprietary indices. He will outline his use of his chosen trading tools and give examples of successful applications, along with some views on the current market outlook.
